

SAFETY DRIVE PLANNED HERE

Officials and Citizens to Combine in War Against Traffic Accidents.

Alarmed by the number of accidents, especially those which have resulted fatally, a safety drive will be started at once by the officials of the District building. A meeting of the officers of all the civic organizations of the District to make the plan probably will be called this week.

Five deaths, three of them children, is the toll exacted by traffic accidents in Washington during the last two weeks.

ONE KILLED IN PAST 24 HOURS.
During the last twenty-four hours, one man lost his life and several persons were injured in a series of traffic accidents.

William Hall, colored, eighty-two years old, 221 Brooks court northwest, died early this morning at Freedman's Hospital from injuries he received yesterday when he was knocked down by a street car.

Hall was crossing Fourth street, near National place, when he was struck. His skull was fractured.
The Chamber of Commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, Board of Trade, citizens' association, Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Optimist Club, and others will be represented at the meeting to plan the safety campaign.

FERGUSON PICKED TO GUARD HARDING

Secret Service Operative Who Protected President Wilson Transfers Activities.

Walter G. Ferguson, a member of the Secret Service guard at the White House, is on his way to the Mexican Gulf Coast to join the party of President-elect Harding, as one of the picked operatives who will accompany the next Chief Executive as he travels with the staff of his itinerary. Including the trip to the Panama Canal Zone.

"Fergie," who has been attached to the secret detail at the White House during Wilson's administration, is not only exceedingly popular because of his refreshing affability, but is also regarded as perhaps the best all-around athlete in the whole Secret Service.

EXCELS IN BOXING.
He excels in boxing and wrestling, as he has both a splendid physique and a knowledge of the finer points of the two sports. He keeps in topnotch condition by a regime of systematic exercise and clean living, and is at once a model of perfect physical manhood.

As an investigator "Fergie" occupies one of the foremost places in the Secret Service. He was associated with the staff of the late President Wilson, and was one of the operatives who penetrated the very vitals of the German spy system during the war and made him espionage a joke in this country. His efficiency and his ability to handle any emergency, however, remains untold except in the glorious records of the Secret Service.

"Fergie" made both trips to Europe with President Wilson, and always was close at hand to protect him from cranks and would-be assassins. It was a trying task in strange lands that the Secret Service men had in France, Belgium, England and Italy, as anarchists lurked everywhere, and it may be said to the everlasting credit of Chief W. H. Moran that not a single mishap befell President Wilson or a member of his party throughout the European tour.

CLOSE TO PRESIDENT.
It has been the duty of "Fergie" to occupy a post close to the President on trips and repel immediate danger. Such was his detail on the trans-Continental tour to the Pacific coast, a year ago, when President Wilson stopped in scores of cities. Again it was to the credit of Chief Moran that his splendid organization resulted in not an untoward incident on the trip.

During his residence in this city Ferguson has made a host of friends. He is a native of Quincy, Mass., and in a quiet way has been identified with the social activities of New Englanders in the Capital. Another New England operative included in the four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect is Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

WALTER G. FERGUSON, member of Secret Service guard at White House, who has been appointed to the bodyguard of President-elect Harding.

FERGUSON PICKED TO GUARD HARDING

Secret Service Operative Who Protected President Wilson Transfers Activities.

Walter G. Ferguson, a member of the Secret Service guard at the White House, is on his way to the Mexican Gulf Coast to join the party of President-elect Harding, as one of the picked operatives who will accompany the next Chief Executive as he travels with the staff of his itinerary. Including the trip to the Panama Canal Zone.

"Fergie," who has been attached to the secret detail at the White House during Wilson's administration, is not only exceedingly popular because of his refreshing affability, but is also regarded as perhaps the best all-around athlete in the whole Secret Service.

EXCELS IN BOXING.
He excels in boxing and wrestling, as he has both a splendid physique and a knowledge of the finer points of the two sports. He keeps in topnotch condition by a regime of systematic exercise and clean living, and is at once a model of perfect physical manhood.

As an investigator "Fergie" occupies one of the foremost places in the Secret Service. He was associated with the staff of the late President Wilson, and was one of the operatives who penetrated the very vitals of the German spy system during the war and made him espionage a joke in this country. His efficiency and his ability to handle any emergency, however, remains untold except in the glorious records of the Secret Service.

"Fergie" made both trips to Europe with President Wilson, and always was close at hand to protect him from cranks and would-be assassins. It was a trying task in strange lands that the Secret Service men had in France, Belgium, England and Italy, as anarchists lurked everywhere, and it may be said to the everlasting credit of Chief W. H. Moran that not a single mishap befell President Wilson or a member of his party throughout the European tour.

CLOSE TO PRESIDENT.
It has been the duty of "Fergie" to occupy a post close to the President on trips and repel immediate danger. Such was his detail on the trans-Continental tour to the Pacific coast, a year ago, when President Wilson stopped in scores of cities. Again it was to the credit of Chief Moran that his splendid organization resulted in not an untoward incident on the trip.

During his residence in this city Ferguson has made a host of friends. He is a native of Quincy, Mass., and in a quiet way has been identified with the social activities of New Englanders in the Capital. Another New England operative included in the four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect is Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

Chief Moran exercised considerable care in the selection of President-elect Harding's bodyguard. "The pick of the service," Chief Moran said, "will be the best of the best." The four immediate Secret Service guards of the President-elect are Harry L. Barker, who was formerly attached to the White House detail, but now has general charge of the Boston district of the service.

IRISH TO BEGIN BOYCOTT HERE

Definite Plan for Ban on British Goods May Be Made Tomorrow.

A concerted movement for the boycotting of England and all things is expected to be started by the Washington branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom, following an address last night by Raymond Kirkpatrick in which such a boycott was urged as the best way of solving the Irish problem.

"The place to strike England where she will feel it most is through the pocketbook," Mr. Kirkpatrick declared, addressing a large audience of Irish sympathizers at 601 E street northwest. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Padriac Pearse branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

In urging an "English boycott," Mr. Kirkpatrick cited a case that occurred in New York last week, when a $5,000,000 contract with a British firm was cancelled through the efforts of the Irish sympathizers. It is expected that further plans for a national systematic English boycott will be discussed at the mass meeting to be held tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock at the Coliseum, Ninth and Pennsylvania avenue. The meeting will be preceded by a parade, headed by Raymond Kirkpatrick, and participated in by thousands of marchers.

Eamon de Valera, president of the republic of Ireland, Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, Senator C. J. Clarke of Rhode Island, Senator J. C. C. of Oklahoma, Senator Norris of Nebraska, and Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence, noted British suffragist, who is at present touring the United States, will be among the speakers at the meeting. The parade will start at 7:15 o'clock, and after traversing the principal streets of the city, particularly those in the vicinity of the White House and the Executive Grounds, the participants will countermarch to the Coliseum where seats will be reserved for them. It is expected that an overflow meeting for those persons who will be unable to gain admission into the hall will be held.

Commenting upon the coming conference between Herbert Hoover and the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, scheduled for next Tuesday, Patrick J. Ryan, chairman of the executive and labor committees of the Friends of Irish Freedom, declared that organized labor would stand on its own merits and not be swayed by political considerations. "Labor wants a good, bona fide labor man and American to represent it, and it will be a sad day for organized labor when Hoover is called in to represent it," stated Mr. Ryan.

Mr. Ryan will call a meeting of the labor committee of the Irish organization this week. The committee will take action on the coming conference, which will be held at the White House, and on the aversion of an industrial war.

More than 200 school children, carrying American and Sinn Féin flags featured the silent march of the parade. The parade was led by Daniel Doran, chairman of the parade committee, and followed by a large number of children and adults. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

The campaign of marching around the White House grounds by the children and adults was a part of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence. The parade was held in honor of the Irish revolution and the struggle for independence.

Banned by D. C. Board, Hurley May Quit Union

Commissioners Decline to Deal With Per Diem Chief, Due To Attack on Kutz.

Joseph H. Hurley, organizer and president of the City Employees Association, who for three years past has directed the union activities of 1,400 local Government employees, may tender his resignation when the organization meets Wednesday night in Cadet Armory, 708 O street northwest.

BANNED BY COMMISSION.
This action is expected as a result of the decision of the District Commissioners to refuse to deal further with Hurley as representative of the District employees. The Commissioners took this step last week upon receipt of a letter from Hurley to Commissioner Hendrick, in which the association was severely scored.

"The probabilities are that I will resign at Wednesday's meeting," said Hurley. "I probably will tell the men to put another man in my place." "Is there any possibility of a strike as a result of the Commissioners' refusal to deal with chosen representative of the men?" Hurley was asked. "None," I will advise them against it," Hurley replied.

UNION MAY TAKE STAND.
It is known, however, a move is on foot to have the union pledge its support to Hurley and probably insist that the District Commissioners recognize him as the representative of the association.

Hurley was at one time an employee of the auditor's office in the District building. He quit this post to organize a city employees' association, later being elected president.

During the three years he has served as president, the association as a whole has threatened many times to strike because of the Commissioners' refusal to grant higher pay. None of the strikes, except in one or two departments, materialized.

A controversy is now being waged over the pay of per diem District employees. The men have demanded higher pay twice and have that number of times been refused. A third demand was made several weeks ago and the Commissioners have taken the question of more pay again under consideration.

Frank J. Breenham, member of the District Wage Board as representative of the employees, is the most likely successor to Hurley in the event the president resigns.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

Hurley said today he had many positions open to him if he quit as head of the union.

75,000 GOAL OF RED CROSS

Goal for Membership Drive in D. C. Fixed at Enthusiastic Meeting.

Bent upon breaking all previous peace-time records of service, American Red Cross officials today were prepared to re-enroll 75,000 active members in the District of Columbia by the end of the fourth annual roll call on Thanksgiving night.

APPLICATIONS POUR IN.
Following the "key-note" appeal of prominent officials at the exercises last night in the National Theater, hundreds of applications poured into local headquarters at 1414 F street northwest this morning.

"The universal response with which our appeals are being met is the most inspiring thing about the drive," declared Mr. Theodor W. Richards, chairman of the women's committee.

Practically every department of the Government is co-operating actively in the Red Cross drive. It was said of headquarters that the men and civic organizations are forming "100 per cent clubs" with a view to signing up all employees and members in the Red Cross ranks for the coming year.

COMMITTEES INCREASED.
Organized under the chairman of 107 auxiliary chapters in the District, volunteer women committees are making a thorough canvass of the city. These committees are being increased daily, it was said at headquarters.

Announcement was made at headquarters today that the Rotary Club of Washington is going into the Red Cross "100 per cent strong." Rollin R. Smith, who is director of the men's committee, has invited the Rotarians to a luncheon in the promenade lounge in Keith's Theater, Friday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock at which a date will be announced on which the Rotarians have agreed to canvass the sections of the business district for memberships.

Employees of the National Savings and Trust Company, it was announced this morning, have enrolled 100 per cent strong also.

Henry B. F. Macfarland struck the key-note at last night's meeting when he appealed to the public of Washington to give their active support to the Red Cross campaign for 500,000 families of soldiers last year.

The work of securing members will be continued until Thanksgiving night by which time it is expected all of last year's members will have been re-enrolled and several thousand new members added to the rolls of the organization.

Officials of the Red Cross are emphasizing that the drive is not a matter for funds but a campaign for membership in view of the broad service program that is contemplated next year.

The gathering last night was notable for the spirit manifested by the people of the District in representing various business and civic organizations.

District Commissioner Babel T. Boardman, Dr. Livingston Brand, chairman of the central committee of the Red Cross; Mrs. Captain Anna L. Fisher, of the Arabian army, Red Cross executive in Damascus, and Henry B. F. Macfarland, former president of the board of District Commissioners, were the speakers.

FLORISTS GIVE PURSE.
At the conclusion of the five-day flower show at old Masonic Temple last evening, Chairman Fred H. Kramer summoned to the stage the Red Cross women who have been conducting a membership drive in the auditorium throughout the Christmas anthems exhibition, and presented them with a substantial purse, the gift of the combined florists of Washington, together with every available blossom in the show room, the latter to be distributed through the Red Cross to the soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

Women in charge of the flower show "roll call" reported that the patrons of the "mum" exhibition were nearly 100 per cent Red Cross members, and today the District chapter of the organization was high in its praise of the spirit shown by the visitors as well as that revealed by the florists' committee.

LEWIS B. PERKINS, recently appointed by the District Commissioners as Assistant Corporation Counsel to fill the vacancy which has existed in that office for several weeks. Mr. Perkins formerly practiced law in the District.

LEWIS B. PERKINS, recently appointed by the District Commissioners as Assistant Corporation Counsel to fill the vacancy which has existed in that office for several weeks. Mr. Perkins formerly practiced law in the District.

NEW ASSISTANTS IN LAW AND MEDICAL SCHOOLS AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

Eighty-four appointments to the faculty at George Washington University have been announced by President William Miller Collier. The list of appointments follows:

Law School—Lyman P. Wilson, professor of law; Thomas C. Lavery, assistant professor of law; Hector G. Spaulding, assistant professor of law; Frank Seymour Smith, lecturer in law; Spencer Gordon, lecturer in law; Wilbur Latham, lecturer in law; Harleigh H. Hartmann, lecturer in law, and William Saulsbury, assistant librarian.

Medical School—Col. Eugene R. Whitmore, associate professor of bacteriology and professor of preventive medicine in the Graduate School; J. Duerson Stout, associate professor of psychiatry and clinical neurology; Edward Urbane Reed, associate professor of tropical medicine; Reginald Alex. Cutting, associate professor of physiology; James H. DeLandorf, associate professor of pharmacology; Albert Elwood Pagan and Elijah White Titus, associates in gynecology; Eugene A. Taylor, instructor in laryngology; Elliott M. Campbell, instructor in materia medica and therapeutics; P. A. McLendon, instructor in pediatrics; Ralph S. Pendleton, instructor in ophthalmology; Carl Francis Maraldi, instructor in physiology; Ralph Lancaster Morrison, dental oral surgeon, University Dispensary, and Allan Scott Wolfe, attending oral surgeon, University Dispensary.

Arts and Sciences Department Library—John Russell Mason, chief assistant librarian; Mary V. George, M. Mary Lester, Cora J. Menaugh, Elizabeth F. Moore, Helen L. Loomis, assistant librarians; and Harry Wright Newman, assistant librarian and student assistant in political science.

Explosives Laboratory—George W. Phillips, instructor in chemistry and director; Frank D. Moore, assistant; Meyer Weinstein, assistant and student assistant in chemistry; Reuben Schmidt, assistant; and Fred Olsen, assistant.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's literature; Leonard D. Norworthy, assistant professor of civil engineering; Earl Gordon Marsh, instructor in civil engineering; Cecil Knight Jones, instructor in Spanish; C. F. Kramer, instructor in French; Edward Cullum, instructor in statistics; Joseph H. Wilson, instructor in mechanical drawing; Owen B. French, professor of surveying; Frank A. Hitchcock, acting professor of applied mathematics; R. E. Myers, instructor in biochemistry; H. A. Ehrman, instructor in mechanical engineering; Bonifant Hamilton, instructor in chemistry; J. Norman Taylor, instructor in chemistry; Peter Valera, instructor in Hawaiian; Beverly L. Clarke, Delmour Fugate, G. H. Corey, J. Goss, E. Haworth, J. H. Metz, and Norris L. Sanborn, Gordon C.

Department of Arts and Sciences—James H. Platt, assistant professor of mechanical engineering; George M. Churchill, assistant professor of history; Norman B. Ames, instructor in chemical drawing; Mlle Jeanne Maret, in C. Cruickshanks, instructor in mechanical engineering; Gregory Hankin, instructor in mathematics; William S. Small, lecturer on education; Mrs. M. S. Albion, lecturer on the teaching of children's